GOULD OR GOLD?
A Passover Editorial

By FERDINAND M. ISSERMAN

"Now there arose a new king over Egypt who knew not Joseph. And he said unto his people: Behold the people of the children of Israel are too many and too mighty for us." This old cry of Pharaoh has been echoed and re-echoed throughout the centuries, and even in Canada this week it was reiterated. On Good Friday the Anglican Churches of Canada hold an annual collection for the mission to the Jews. To swell that collection, a letter containing a Good Friday appeal was sent out by the Missionary Society of the Church, which was to have been read at the Anglican Church services. Two of the local papers ascribed the authorship of the letter to the Rev. Canon J. Gould who is head of the Missionary Society of 604 Jarvis Street. The latter, when phoned on Monday, disclaimed authorship of the letter about the Jews, but stated that the letter was authentic and authoritative, but refused to name its writer. And for good reasons he is ashamed to divulge its author, for the letter trots out all the bogeys about the Jews, which Anti-Semites throughout the ages have invented to slander and libel. The following quotations from that letter speak for themselves: "THEY CAN SEE CERTAIN QUARTERS OF THE CITY POSSESSED BY JEWS AND ONE STREET AFTER ANOTHER PASSING INTO THE HANDS OF THIS RACE, WHICH IS WITH US AND YET NEVER COMPLETELY WITH US. THE PERCENTAGE OF JEWS ATTENDING THE COLLEGIATES AND UNIVERSITIES GROWS LARGER EVERY YEAR. CERTAIN PROFESSIONS ARE BECOMING CROWDED WITH JEWS. THE JEW IS ASSERTING HIMSELF IN MUNICIPAL POLITICS. HIS VOTE COUNTS —HE IS CLAIMING A VOICE IN THE CONTROL OF QUESTIONS OF EDUCATIONAL POLICY.

"THE INFLUENCE OF THE JEW THROUGH THE PRESS, HIGH FINANCE, DRAMA AND POLITICS," it continues, "IS NEUTRAL IN THE MAIN AS FAR AS RELIGION IS CONCERNED. HIS AIM IN THESE ACTIVITIES IS MAINLY COMMERCIAL. TO SUPPLY WHAT THE PUBLIC WILL BUY IS HIS OBJECT RATHER THAN TO EXERT HIS INFLUENCE IN ANY PARTICULAR DIRECTION. BUT CAN AN ATTITUDE TOWARDS RELIGION BE NEUTRAL? 'HE THAT IS NOT WITH ME IS AGAINST ME' IS UTTERLY TRUE OF JESUS CHRIST."

"A FEW MONTHS PAST A PROMINENT JEW ADVOCATED A CHANGE IN THE ATTITUDE TOWARDS JESUS; HE PRESSED THE ACCEPTANCE BY HIS RACE OF AT LEAST THE ETHICAL TEACHING OF THE 'KING OF THE JEWS.' A STORM OF INDIGNANT PROTEST AND DENUNCIATION SWEPT OVER THE JEWISH COMMUNITY ON THIS CONTINENT. FOR A MOMENT THE VEIL WAS TORN ASIDE AND THE MEN COULD SEE THE CRUCIFIED IS STILL PASSIONATELY REJECTED BY THE JEWS AS A RACE.

CHRISTIANS IN CANADA, THEN," it concludes, "HAVE TO FACE THIS SITUATION: IN THEIR MIDST, INFLUENCING THEM INTIMATELY IN NUMBERLESS WAYS, LIVES A RACE WHICH IS UTTERLY OPPOSED TO FAITH IN CHRIST. TO THE JEW THE HONOUR PAID TO JESUS BY THE CHRISTIAN IS BLASPHEMY. TO THE TRUE CHRISTIAN THE REJECTION OF JESUS BY THE JEW IS REBELLION AGAINST GOD."

Now to analyze a few of its absurdities. The tragedy of "certain

INTERCHANGE OF PULPITS

By HERBERT J. SAMUEL

Innovations inevitably arouse opposition. Viscount Grey, of Fallodon, former British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, refers in his book, "Twenty-five Years," to those who "have formed opinions that nothing will modify, and are dominated by predilections or prejudices that have become an inseparable part of their lives. With such people, mental digestion ceases to be able to assimilate anything except what nourishes convictions already formed; all else is rejected or resented." Viscount Grey is speaking of political and national affairs; but his words are equally applicable to religious matters. All attempts at progress in religious thought and practice have to reckon with the type of mind that sees danger and sacrilege in every change. Nevertheless it is not altogether difficult to appreciate, and—to a certain extent—to sympathise with, the attitude of those who oppose the interchange of pulpits between Jewish rabbis and Christian clergymen. It is not entirely a matter of tolerance and intolerance. The interchange of pulpits has not always proved successful as an experiment. It requires on the part of the preacher an exercise of tact that is not always in evidence. Few preachers are able, when addressing those of another faith, to divest themselves completely of a self-consciousness which leads to the offering of apologies that invariably create the wrong impression. We all have heard at some time or other the lecturer before a Jewish audience, who, while bubbling over with effusive admiration for the Jewish people, expresses a regret that they have not yet been able to realize "the truth." Some of us still remember the occasion when the late President Kruger attended the consecration of a new synagogue at Johannesberg, and declared it open "in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ."

That is, of course, an extreme instance, and happily, there are others to offset it. The foundation stone of the Shaarey Zedek Synagogue, at Winnipeg, was laid in 1889, with Masonic ceremonies, by Canon James D. O'Meara, M.W. Grand Master of the Province. Christians have spoken on several occasions at special services in the Shaarey Zedek Synagogue, which is an Orthodox one. I have preached in more than one church in the West, and have participated in many religious ceremonies, at all times with the approval of my congregation. The Canadian Club, of Winnipeg, was broadminded enough to select me as Chaplain, and as such I had charge of the annual Armistice Day Service in 1924. This provided an illustration of the difficulties that are experienced on occasions of joint worship. It was a public ceremony, attended by more than 6,000 Christians, and a commemoration of the deepest religious significance for them. Part of my duty was to lead them in prayer. I felt, however, that the prayer should justly contain some Christian reference. I drafted such a prayer to be printed on the programme, and then asked a Christian clergyman to lead in its recital, while I presided over the service. I had certainly the willingly expressed consent of the committee to eliminate all Christian references from the service, but I realized that in so doing I would be detracting from the religious value of the occasion.

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC?
It is Not Medicine
Not Surgery
Not Osteopathy

IT IS A SCIENTIFIC METHOD OF ADJUSTING THE CAUSE OF DISEASE WITHOUT DRUGS OR INSTRUMENTS, BASED ON A CORRECT KNOWLEDGE OF ANATOMY, AND ESPECIALLY THE NERVOUS SYSTEM. THE CHIROPRACTIC IDEA IS THAT THE CAUSE OF DISEASE IS IN THE PERSON AFFLICTED, AND THE ADJUSTMENT IN CORRECTING THE WRONG THAT IS PRODUCING IT. THE FUNCTION OF EVERY ORGAN IN THE BODY IS CONTROLLED BY MENTAL IMPULSES FROM THE BRAIN, WHICH IT TRANSMITS THROUGH THE NERVES. ANY IMPINGEMENT OF THESE NERVES INTERFERING WITH THE TRANSMISSION OF MENTAL IMPULSES RESULTS IN AN ABNORMAL FUNCTION CALLED DISEASE. THIS INTERFERENCE IS PRODUCED BY SUBLUXATED VERTEBRAE PRESSING UPON NERVES AS THEY PASS OUT FROM THE SPINAL CORD. THE TRAINED ADJUSTER IS ABLE TO LOCATE THE POINT OF OBSTRUCTION OR INTERFERENCE AND, BY MEANS OF ADJUSTING THE SUBLUXATED VERTEBRAE, CORRECTS THE CAUSE, AND NORMAL CONDITIONS OR HEALTH, ARE THE RESULT.

INVESTIGATION COSTS NOTHING, AND MEANS HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

His response included the assurance that Great Britain would never break its promises to fulfil the Balfour declaration.

MONTREAL STARTS ON J.D.C. CAMPAIGN

Montreal Jews are hastening preparations for the effort to raise $15,000,000 for an "Overseas Chest" for East European Jews who are starving. Chairman of the United Jewish Campaign, David A. Brown, has been invited to speak in Montreal at a provincial conference, May 4 and 5.

A committee composed of Rabbis Herbert J. Samuel, H. Abramowitz, J. Berger, and Hirsch Cohen, is inviting representatives of all the Jewish communities in the province to form a conference committee to welcome Mr Brown. Lyon Cohen, Michael Hirsch, Samuel Hart, Samuel W. Jacobs, Nathan Gordon, and Peter Bercovitch will serve on the committee.

The United Jewish Campaign is being conducted by the Joint Distribution Committee in Canada and the United States in order to raise $15,000,000; $1,500,000 will go for reconstruction work in Palestine; for land settlement in Russia, $4,500,000; medical and relief work in Europe, $1,800,000; credit kassas, co-operatives and business reconstruction, $1,200,000; refugee work, $1,800,000; orphans, institution work, etc., $2,700,000. These allocations are approximate and tentative and may be rearranged by the J.D.C. officials. In the eleven years of work by the J.D.C. in Europe, $60,000,000 has been expended.

Mr. Brown, from a poor boy, advanced until he now heads the General Necessities Corporation of Detroit, and a score of other big business enterprises. He has abandoned his private interests to give all of his time during the next eight months to the campaign.

FIRST GARDEN CITY FOR WORKERS BEING ESTABLISHED IN PALESTINE

Plans for a workers' garden city for 1,200 families—about 6,000 people—the first community of its kind to be established in Palestine—have just been announced by the Jewish National Fund and Keren Hayesod.

The garden city, considered of great significance in the colonization of Palestine, will be located near Haifa on the Jidra estate, recently bought by the National Fund, American Zion Commonwealth and other organizations. This area is now in the midst of an intense development because of its industrial projects and its coming harbor improvement. The garden city will occupy about 5,500 dunam of land, owned by the Jewish National Fund.

Improvement of the land will cost about $900,000, half of which will be borne by the Workers' Organization, the balance equally between the National Fund and the Keren Hayesod. The workers will raise their $450,000 by deducting approximately $5 monthly from the wages of the 2,000 workmen to be employed in the undertaking, beginning April first and continuing for twenty to twenty-five months until the whole amount is fully paid.

The National Fund has been considering the problem of workers' suburbs for some years, because of the serious living conditions facing Jewish workmen forced to reside in the congested cities where rents and other expenses are so high. Workers' suburbs also help introduce a sounder basis of urban development for Palestine.

The establishment of a workers' suburb on Haifa Bay marks the beginning of the exploitation of this important area, which is bound to become increasingly important, economically and politically, as the Port of Haifa develops. The employment of a large number of workers will ease the present seasonal unemployment conditions in Palestine and will also help solve the acute housing problem facing Palestine's growing city workers' population. The proposed suburb will include an agricultural zone, enabling the city worker to retain contact with the soil and further provision is to be made to establish a group of women agriculturalists in the suburb.

A. C. Rathesky, of Boston, has contributed the sum of $100,000 to the Beth Israel Hospital of that city. This is said to be the largest single gift ever made to any local Jewish charitable cause in Boston.

Y.M.H.A. NEWS

The Y.M.H.A. will present "A Bill of Divorcement," a play in three acts, by Clemence Dane, at His Majesty's Theatre, April 18. Rupert Caplan, who is directing the play, will take the part of the broken soldier, who has been adjudged incurably insane. The rest of the cast is: Miss Dorothy Caplan, as the seventeen-year-old daughter; Miss Sarah Weiner, the wife who is in love with another man and is already divorced from her demented husband; Josh Shapira, the wife's new lover; Mrs. Dorothy Davis-Stein, the spinster sister; Bert Fromson, the clergyman; Milton Poushkiss, the physican who presented the position of science and logic in the play; Miss Myra Chorlton, the maid.

The aim of the Y.M.H.A. Drama League, is to create a Little Theatre, which will be part of the Community Centre building when planned. Next year the Y plans to stage two three-act plays and two series of three one-act plays each during the fall and winter season. Immediate plans are being made for an enlarged dramatic society.

The society has in its repertoire "Outward Bound," which will probably be presented at Jacoby's Studio of Camera Portraiture, Victoria Street, to an invited group in May. Harry and Joseph Jacoby have volunteered the use of their studio.

First smoker, April 26. Morris Booth is arranging for a number of boxing and wrestling bouts, assisted by Moe Herscovitch and the entire Athletic Council. Proceeds go to make up some of the expenses incurred by the athletic department.

NUMERUS CLAUSUS IN RUMANIA

The Rumanian anti-Semitic students went out on a strike against the universities, demanding that the Numerus Clausus against Jewish students be introduced in Rumania. The strike was not successful, most of the students having returned to their class-rooms. The Minister of Education, however, in an effort to pacify the striking students, declared that while it was impossible for the government to introduce the Numerus Clausus officially, as this would involve them in many difficulties, there will be introduced a number of reforms in the universities, which will serve the same purpose. This means that the authorities have a plan by which the number of Jewish students at the Rumanian universities will be restricted and limited, without resorting to a definite law, as Hungary did, which might complicate matters for Rumania. This policy is peculiarly Rumanian, the cowardly policy of hiding behind a quibble in order to appear liberal to the outside world, while carrying out in practice the barbaric demands of the reactionaries.

At the same time we are informed that a secret meeting of the anti-Semitic organizations of Rumania, Hungary and Austria was held at Budapest, when a policy of co-operation was decided upon. It is not unlikely that the students' strike in Rumania was the result of this conference.

More than a hundred Jews were wounded when anti-Semitic students attacked a passenger train going to Galacz, and beat all Jews who were on the train. Four Jews were taken from the car in a dying conditions. Most of the Jewish passengers were merchants or drummers, who had no interest in politics and were not in the least implicated in the recent elections for municipal officers when the reactionaries met with defeat. It seems that this defeat so embittered the anti-Semites that they determined on a crusade against the Jews, whom they hold responsible for this. Attacks on Jews occur daily in various parts of the country, and the police are either powerless or unwilling to take drastic action in this matter. The light sentences imposed by the courts on these offenders are also regarded as the cause of the repitition of these disturbances.

A note of warning was given by Lucien Wolf at a recent meeting of the Board of Deputies of British Jews, with regard to the attitude of the Rumanian Government toward the Jewish question. Mr. Wolf admitted that the situation there was much worse now than it was before and that all the efforts of the Joint Foreign Committee had proved of little avail. He said that "Rumania was made 'Greater Rumania' under the impression that it would be a light to the Orient, and stand for all the ideals that had animated the peace, but it had become the only country in which barbarous anti-Semitism continued. Rumania could not afford to allow this reproach to rest upon her, and the population would seek to throw off the reproach. If they did not there was absolute certainty that humiliations of a very serious character would be in store for the Rumanian nation and the Rumanian government."

Rabbi Samuel's Editorial

Questions such as these must arise whenever clergymen participate in the services of other denominations, and preaching is decidedly such a participation. It is open to much doubt whether any real advantage is derived from such religious exercises, which for the sake of removing all offense must be whittled down to an expressionless least common denominator. They possess a certain value as occasional gestures of goodwill. But they cannot be dissociated from a sense of spiritual repression which becomes harmful when overdone or misplaced.

There is another aspect, too, which must be taken into account in considering the question of the interchange of pulpits. Any rabbi would feel aggrieved if too many of his congregation were to make it a practice to attend regularly the services at some particular church, at the expense of their attendance at synagogue or temple. He would freely express his disapproval from his pulpit and charge the "delinquents" with a betrayal of the interests of their congregation. Many of the American rabbis had to do so in regard to Christian Science. But that disapproval would smack of insincerity if the rabbi were in the habit of regularly inviting Christian preachers into his own pulpit. The Jewish pulpit should be open to the Christian preacher on special occasions particularly when that preacher has a message of value for Judaism, and when that preacher's attitude towards Judaism in his own pulpit is in conformity with his protestations in the Jewish pulpit. The pulpit of the Temple Emanu-El has always been so open, and will continue so. The most effective work, however, in the establishment of better understanding between Jew and Gentile can be done through the medium of the brotherhoods and men's clubs and service clubs, where the atmosphere is free from mental reservations and apologies inseparable from the ritual and ceremonial of divine service.

Moreover, it should not be overlooked that in these days the Jewish pulpit cannot afford to sacrifice the meagre time at its disposal for the expounding of Judaism. "In order to be truly cosmopolitan," it was said by a writer many years ago, "a man ought to know something of his own country." This thought has particular force in regard to Judaism, and there are ample signs on all sides that the Jewish pulpit, whether Orthodox, Reform, or indefinable, has plenty of work in hand to make the Jews even moderately acquainted with matters Jewish. The teachings of Judaism are largely universal. Liberal Judaism especially has the elements of religion for all mankind, a message that holds out an elevating doctrine for others besides Jews. But while that is indubitably the case, and while it is the clearly expressed aim of the Jewish liturgy, Orthodox as well as Reform, there still remains the ethnic element which is peculiarly and essentially Jewish. Between the crass, irrational and often degrading ceremonialism on the one hand, and the quasi-theistic worship of sublimated social ethics on the other, there is the inexpungeable experience of the "God-intoxicated people." In no day has there been so much intelligent and thorough delving into the past. An unrealized wealth of spiritual treasure is being discovered from the hitherto hidden-away debris of former days. From it is being revealed much that can help and guide those who are staggering like drunken men through the perplexities of readjustment necessitated by the changed and changing conditions of these modern days.

It is the duty of the Jewish pulpit of to-day to evaluate all this. The idea prevails among far too many of the adherents of Reform Judaism that Reform is a license for total disregard of everything Jewish, even including the moral code, that the one purpose of Judaism is to secure a more tolerant attitude towards the Jew on the part of the non-Jew. Let us posit the existence of a city in Canada, say of 100,000 population, where nothing but the spirit of real brotherhood prevailed, where the moral and ethical standards were at their highest, where peace and justice were firmly established. Would Judaism have no individual expression in such a community? Its main ideals would have been realized. One might almost say that its mission would have been fulfilled. Would the synagogue—using the term in its widest sense—have no place? Would the existence of Judaism as a distinct religion with all its inspiring memories—instructive, at least, where they lack inspiration—be considered no longer necessary?

Even in a state of such perfection Judaism would have its distinctive function and that function would show itself through some commemoration calculated to perpetuate and renew the specifically Jewish ideal of the God-enraptured soul. It would have still some regard for the racial entity of Israel and a desire for its continuance.

What is most unfortunate for the Jew to-day is the extent of his unfitness for the glorious ideals of his faith. He is hardly aware of the teachings of Judaism. He is fast losing all sense of loyalty to them. With very few exceptions, he makes no sacrifices. He has no reliable guide as to what he should discard and what preserve. He is, as one of our modern Jewish thinkers once said, in the condition of a man bleeding to death and unable to stanch the flow of his life fluid. In his desperate panic he is afraid that the slightest movement may accelerate that flow and hasten his end. The Jewish pulpit to-day must realize that; and its urgent call must be "to the Jew first." The Liberal pulpit should be able to hold forth a constructive Judaism in harmony with modern thought and reacting upon modern life. It is a serious, solemn task, fraught with great responsibility. The rabbi is entitled to enlist the aid of the liberal Christian in helping the Jew to understand himself, but to utilise the pulpit just for demonstrations is to expose it to the risk of losing its sacred purpose, the expounding of Judaism to the Jew and the exhorting of the Jew to the Jewish life. Nevertheless it is absurd to talk of the presence of a Christian in the Jewish pulpit as desecration. What is desecration in the real meaning of the term is the unnecessary absence of the Jew from the pew.

Rabbi Isserman's Editorial

quarters of the city being possessed by Jews" is that Jews are compelled to live in "certain quarters," I myself having been refused an apartment when the proprietor discovered my religious affiliations. The fact that "the percentage of Jews at the collegiates and the universities grows larger every year," is indicative of the cultural urge in Jews and their eagerness to take advantage of educational facilities and prepare themselves more adequately for citizenship. For that the Jews should be commended. The Jews as voters should assert themselves in municipal politics, not as Jews but as citizens, as should every other voter. The Protestants and Catholics also assert themselves. But last New Year's Day, an organized campaign urged people to come out and vote. The use of the ballot is a sign of good citizenship. I hope that all Jews will at all times use the ballot to promote the interest of the communities in which they dwell. Another crime is that the Jew raises his voice over educational policies. As a citizen that is his prerogative. What influence has the Jew on the press, high finance, the drama and politics? In Canada not a single English newspaper as far as I know is owned by Jews. The vices of the press here, hence cannot be attributed to the Jews. The big bankers in Canada are not Jews. As far as the drama is concerned, the best Christian sermon appearing on the stage in decades was "The Fool," written by Channing Pollock, a Jew, and the most artistic theatre on the American continent is the Yiddish Art Theatre of New York. The Chairman of the Metropolitan Opera House Company is Otto H. Kahn, another Jew.

The letter, too, misquotes Wise. Wise never asked the Jews to accept the ethical teachings of the "King of the Jews." The ethical teachings of Jesus were Jewish, and to these the Jews have paid homage long before Christianity was born.

But the letter is so full of absurdities that one hesitates to continue. This much is evident: that whoever wrote it, whether his name was Gould or X, was out for gold. He deliberately sought to inflame the members of the Anglican Church against the Jews in order to increase the revenue of a missionary organization. Why was Canon Gould so secretive about the author of the letter? Is the author ashamed of the letter? I am certain that it does not express the sentiments of the vast majority of members of the Anglican churches. Though it bears endorsement of the Bishop of Prince Rupert and the Primate of Canada, I feel certain that it was a blanket endorsement given before the letter was written. I have learned that the letter was not read in two of the Toronto Anglican churches.

The question of collecting money for Jewish missions in the Anglican Church on Good Friday is an old one which has outlived its usefulness and ought to be discontinued. The Church should recognize Judaism as an exalted faith whose devotees can get all the spiritual comforts they need from it. Many Anglicans recognize that tacitly, as the Master, I understand, is poorly supported.

I deplore the publication of the letter at this time of the year. Instead of making for love, it makes for hate. Instead of making for tolerance, it makes for intolerance. Instead of making for peace, it makes for strife. The Christian seasons are sacred, and any attempt to subvert their inspiration to purposes of hate and strife, merit the condemnation of spiritually minded women and men. To stimulate Christian prejudice against Jews at this time of the year for the sake of money is as base and materialistic as can be conceived. Who is Gould now? Pharaoh revived.

Why Dress-makers use Lux

IN the handling of fine fabrics, particularly silks, satins and crepes, it is very easy to pull a thread and damage a dress in the making.

Dress-makers tell us the exclusive use of Lux as a household soap keeps the hands soft and white, the skin smooth, so that they can handle the most filmy and delicate of things, without danger to the fabric.

You will appreciate the gentle efficiency of Lux, even though you do not do your own sewing.

For the whole family wash, for dishwashing, bathing and shampooing, Lux has no equal. And Lux is as safe to use as soft water.

POLES EXEMPT JEWS FROM MILITARY SERVICE

The Polish Government has granted Jewish students at the University of Jerusalem a postponement of their military service with the aim of facilitating their studies. This decision has been received with intense satisfaction in Jewish quarters.

D. E. Eichholtz, a Jewish student at Emmanuel College, Cambridge University, England, has won the Sir William Browne Medal for Greek epigram.

For a daily newspaper to say that A. A. Heaps, Member of Parliament for North Winnipeg, remained seated during the singing of "God Save the King" when he really stood up, might happen anywhere in the country where partizan zeal is partizan zeal, but for a Yorkshire accent to be called "the distinct Hebraic accent of an immigrant" would hardly happen where Jewish communities have flourished for generations and produced valuable department store advertisers.

In the United States a daily newspaper approaches even too cautiously the words "Jew" and "Hebrew" and almost never uses them to describe an individual. Certainly in all that fair land there is no newspaper comparable to the Evening Telegram, which colours its news openly and never hesitates to use "Jew" or "Roman Catholic" in a derogatory connection. At present, as an outgrowth of post-war anti-Semitic feeling, of problems concerning aliens and immigration matters and legislation, American journalism is thick with discussion of Jews, but the daily newspapers do not print anything anti-Jewish. There are a few magazines which irk sensitive Jewish skins but there are few complaints against the dailies.

From the dignified, reserved Nation to the vulgar New York Evening Graphic there is an obvious effort to pat the Jewish shoulder and to say nice things. The Nation is not only fair in its discussions but it caters to the Jewish subscriber by commenting or running articles on topics of specific Jewish interest. The Nation's circulation list for New York City, at least, would probably look like the roster of a schul. A letter from the editor to a Jewish subscriber, who has neglected to renew his subscription, reads: "In these days of racial discrimination, etc., etc."

The New York Evening World recently ran a long series of articles on Palestine by Sophie Irene Loeb. Its chief editorial writer is Walter Lippman, a Jew, and its editorial page usually reflects on Jewish subjects of the day when they lend themselves to comment. An editorial on Rabbi Wise, or the action of an organization of rabbis or something which pertains to Zionist policy is not unusual in the World. When a Jewish boy wins in a contest, he is not hailed as part of the "Jewish invasion." The World is now running articles on the huge operations of a gang of criminals whose speciality was robbing jewellery stores. Judging from the names, the men who supplied the brains were Jews, but there is no mention of "Jew" in connection with the news reports of arrests and so on.

The New York Evening Graphic has the honour of being the first big daily to print matter exclusively Jewish. Articles on "Why the Jew Wins" describe the industrious, home-loving, indomitable Jew. The type is wet with glucose instead of ink and the sweet words just naturally roll on and on. Biographies showing how Jews forge ahead in the face of all obstacles are so glowing that even if the writers were Jewish they would have to take dope to induce the light-headedness necessary to such writing. The most blatant, blustering Jew reading these articles must feel foolish if not sick.

Of course the Jews don't demand such treatment or want it. They would prefer to be treated as others are treated, neither maligned nor idealized; neither vilified nor lauded absurdly. However, it is better for papers to go the saccharine limit than to resort to vitriol if they can't find a middle way. The intelligent Jew wants neither insults nor too much commendation, but most American newspapers, in the fear that they will offend, make their advertising departments and circulation managers feel easier by being as smeary as possible to the Jew.

The Jews are strongly entrenched in the States. They show their strength in their enormous gifts to education and charity; their expensive synagogues and institutions; the place so many of them fill in the public life about them. They have helped to work wonders in the building of gigantic cities and national prosperity. There is no newspaper circulation of more value than Jewish circulation because Jews have money to spend with the advertisers. There is no circulation worth pandering to or stirring up against the Jew which could offset the profits from the big advertising columns placed by business owned by Jews. If money talks it can also make favourable view-points where view-points aren't inclined to be favourable. For a newspaper, the Toronto Star, which is nearly always friendly to Jews, to call an accent "the distinct Hebraic accent of an immigrant" is not at all catastrophic, but it is indicative. For Jews to expect much worse and to fear such a paper as the Evening Telegram for example, and to wonder when it will "bark" next, is also [illegible]. It means that their community has not evolved. Some day the Jewish community here, as a whole, will have passed the [illegible] stage and placed its stamp on the general community life. It will have more money, more power, more leaders. And when that [illegible] the newspapers will listen and behave, even the yellow ones. f.f.c.

ACROSS CANADA AND BACK

Marvelous beyond conception inaptly describes the glories of Canada's Rockies. To be fully appreciated they must be seen. To start out on a trip by one's self into this unfamiliar but far-famed paradise-on-earth, to many appears quite a task. Realizing this, Dean Sinclair Laird, of Macdonald College, an experienced Rocky Mountains traveller, for the third year in succession, has undertaken to conduct a party through this glorious wonderland.

A special train of dining, standard sleeping and observation compartment cars has been chartered, to leave Toronto July 19 via the Canadian Pacific Railway. Stops will be made at Port Arthur and Fort William, which together form Canada's greatest grain port. Winnipeg Beach, the popular summer resort for Winnipegers; Winnipeg, Canada's third largest city; Indian Head, the chief tree-distributing centre of the Federal Forestry Branch; Regina, the capital of Saskatchewan; Calgary, Alberta's largest city; Banff, the world-famous mountain resort; by automobile for 104 miles over the Banff-Windermere Highway, the most spectacular drive in Canada, through Kootenay Lake to Nelson, the commercial centre of South-East British Columbia; then through the Okanagan country to Penticton; along over Okanagan Lake, and to Vancouver; thence by steamer to Victoria.

Returning, the trip will be by the main line of the Canadian Pacific, through the great canyons of the Fraser and Thompson Rivers, and through the Selkirks and Rockies, affording scenery such as can be found nowhere else on earth; Lake Louise, the Pearl of the Rockies, the most perfect gem of scenery in the world; another day at Banff, Edmonton, the Capital of Alberta; Saskatoon, the city of optimism; Devil's Gap Camp, on the Lake of the Woods, near Kenora; thence to Fort William, where one of the fine Canadian Pacific Steamers will be used across Lakes Superior and Huron to Port McNicoll, then rail to Toronto, where the trip will terminate.

Everything is included in the price of $330, from Toronto; transportation, sleeping cars, accommodation in hotels, and bungalow camps, meals in diners, hotels and on steamers and sight-seeing tours at points visited.

The trip is open to all, and applications for accommodation are being received.

Fares from other points than Toronto will be named, and descriptive illustrated booklet sent on application to Dean Sinclair Laird, Macdonald College Post Office, Que.

RUMANIAN UNIVERSITIES CLOSED

The streets of Bucharest and other Rumanian towns are being patrolled by police and soldiers in consequence of the general strike of the students, who demand that a numerus clausus law be passed with a view of excluding Jewish students from the universities. The Minister of Public Instruction ordered all universities to be closed for an indefinite period and many of the students are returning to their homes. Many casualties occurred in the attacks made by the striking students on Jews in Jassy, and several Jewish students were seriously injured. The student body of the Czernowitz University, in Bukowina, refused to join in the strike with the students in other Rumanian universities.

Philip Werner Amran, of Philadelphia has been elected editor-in-chief of the University of Pennsylvania "Law Review" for the collegiate year of 1926-1927. He is the son of David Werner Amran, formerly professor of law at the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Abba Hillel Silver

Rabbi, the Temple, Cleveland, Ohio, who will speak at the Keren Hayesod Banquet, April 13.

Dr. Silver graduated from the Hebrew Union College and the University of Cincinnati in 1915.

The degree of doctor of divinity was conferred upon him by the Hebrew Union College in June, 1925.

He was rabbi of the Congregation B'nai Sharnayim, Wheeling, W. Va., from 1915 to 1917, and was called to the rabbinate of the Temple, Cleveland, in 1917.

He is a member of the executive board of the Central Conference of American Rabbis; the commission of education, Union of American Hebrew Congregations; executive board, the Consumer's League of Ohio; director Intercollegiate Menorah Association; director of Jewish Publication Society of America; board of Federation of Jewish Charities, Cleveland; board of Cleveland Associated Charities; vice-president Zionist Organization of America and member of the International Actions' Committee of that organization; board of governors of the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati.

Dr. Silver was in France during the world war at the request of the governments of the United States and France and was decorated by the French government for conspicuous service.

PALESTINE DEFENSE FORCES

Protests have been sent to the Palestine Government against a recent action which practically excluded Jews from acting as members of defense forces in Transjordania and on the borer. Col. Wedgewood asked of the Colonial Secretary in the House of Commons whether it was true that Jews were excluded from the defense forces, to which Mr. Amery replied in the negative, but said that the matter was now under consideration. A very strongly worded proclamation was issued by the Zionist-Revisionists of Palestine, in which this attitude of the Government was condemned in most forceful language. According to the latest report, the Palestine Government is now working out a plan by which this matter will be adjusted to the satisfaction of the Jewish population.

Another matter that brought forth the protests of the Palestine Jewry was the report that Persia was placing obstacles in the way of Jews who desire to emigrate to Palestine. The only other country that imposes such restrictions is Russia, but Russia is not a member of the League of Nations and therefore not a party to the Palestine mandate. The protest was forwarded to the Zionist Executive in London and by it to the Persian legation in London.

CAPERNAUM SYNAGOGUE TO BE RESTORED

An old synagogue in Capernaum (Kefar Nahum), in Galilee, where Jesus was supposed to have delivered his first public discourse, will soon be restored. The ruins of that synagogue were recently unearthed and the work of restoration was given out by the representatives of the Franciscan Order to a German contractor.

Another report relates that a town to be named "New Jericho" will soon be built up in the neighbourhood of the ancient city of Jericho. Jericho has about one thousand inhabitants now and has no Jews living there. The city is very low, supposed to be the lowest town in the world, situated 825 feet below sea level. The new town will be built with the aid of the Government, which will give each inhabitant a plot of ground and will provide the settlement with water from the neighboring springs.

Dr. Emanuel Lasker, former chess champion of the world, who is now touring the United States, won 28 and drew 2 of 30 simultaneous games played recently in Chicago.

Toronto, March 30, 1926.

Editor,
CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW,

Dear Sir: I cannot refrain from expressing my appreciation for that editorial of Rabbi Isserman's, "Desecrating the Pulpit," which appeared in the issue of March 26. The beauty and elevation of its thought is expressed in equally beautiful language. The Holy Blossom Synagogue may well be proud of having as its religious leader one who can speak in such terms.

Surely the thought expressed, with its appeal to tolerance and breadth of view and its emphasis upon the things upon which we can all agree, is what we emphatically need to-day. Narrowness, bigotry and bitter prejudice are the enemies of the human race wherever and however, they appear. They have appeared unfortunately all too often from supposedly Christian sources. The more reason that all of those who believe in religious fellowship and universal brotherhood, in either religious group, should refuse to lend them countenance. There will certainly be a wide response from Christian sources in that fine statement that, "If there is anything that is ungodly, the ill-will between religious groups is ungodly. If anything cries aloud unto the heavens, it is the malice between the followers of Judaism and Christianity. Judaism and Christianity are neither enemies nor rivals. They are co-workers attempting to bring men nearer to God."

Yours sincerely,

J. N. STAPLEFORD,
General Secretary
Neighbourhood Workers' Association.

Help the Wanderer back to his own soil.

The Jews streaming into Palestine are not only building their own home, they are rebuilding the Jewish National Home.

They have converted deserts and swamps into flourishing farms; they have built new cities and industries; they have stamped out disease and established an educational system crowned by the Hebrew University. They are bringing honor to the Jewish name everywhere throughout the world.

In Six Years the Jewish Population of Palestine has Almost Trebled.

At present the Jewish population of Palestine is estimated at 150,000. Six years ago when the rebuilding of the Jewish Homeland was started on an active scale it was 55,000.

How many more can Palestine absorb this year of the thousands of Jews from Eastern and Central Europe awaiting for the opportunity to settle there?

That answer depends upon the success of this year's appeal. With the realization of the quota, about sixty thousand additional immigrants can be absorbed into the growing economic life of the country.

NORTHERN ONTARIO
CANADA

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement in 160-acre blocks at fifty cents per acre, contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. Its resources in lumber, minerals, water power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return will give health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming and forest life, is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regards to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.

SHEA'S

A bill of all-feature acts at Shea's will please the lovers of good music, comedy, dancing and novelty. Stage dancing in England has for a century reached perfection and the Pony Ballets and Tiller Girls and their ensemble dances brought a new dance idea to America. J. W. Jackson's twelve royal English dancers head the list of the week's features and come here direct from the Alhambra Theatre, London, Paris and Berlin applauded this act for many months. A programme of six dances introduces the girls in a picturesque ensemble and the special music is a feature of the offering.

Richard Kean, until he entered the music halls, was one of the best known character actors in England. In this offering he takes the big scenes from unusual standard plays and offers some of the best known characters in the drama.

The word Ritz has become a synonym for excellence—a brand like sterling or 100 per cent. pure. At least it is used in this respect by the Ritz Serenaders, a musical organization headed by Peggy Fay and Jack Finney. Mr. Finney and Miss Fay are a singer and a dancer. To be abreast of the times the Ritz Serenaders must be syncopated, but syncopation is not their sole forte. Here is a musical organization equally proficient in every form of musical expression.

Mae Frances is a dainty musical comedy star of delightful personality and fine voice who has a splendid repertoire of songs. Ed East and Ralph Dumke present an act that is built on a foundation of personality and ability. They also possess the knack of composing original comedy songs. Writing their own material makes them exclusive and with two perfectly blended voices their act is certain to be long remembered by local vaudeville patrons.

Alice Hamilton and George Hayes in "The Spirit of '76" by Paul Gerard Smith, Groh and Adonis, "The Piano Hounds," "Canada in Pictures" and an Aesop Fable complete the bill.

Keren Hayesod Campaign News

Special names committee met at the home of David Dunkelman Sunday afternoon. Those present were Messrs. J. Brodey, A. Cash, Chas. Draimin, M. Gelber, H. Greisman, Dr. Max Kates, Jess Kaplan, S. Kauffman, Wm. Liebel, Eli Pullan, Dr. M. Pivnick, M. Rosen, L. M. Schwartz, L. M. Singer and M. Weinstock, and Mesdames D. Dunkelman, M. Kates, L. M. Schwartz, J. Selick, B. Speyers and Dr. Singer.

L. M. Singer, honorary campaign director, presided and outlined plans for a special names committee.

Lists of prospective subscribers were distributed. Mrs. Selick, convener of banquet arrangements, reported. The sale of banquet tickets will be in charge of the Women's Keren Hayesod Committee. Mrs. Kates reported on plans for women's part in the campaign. All captains and workers are to meet Thursday evening, April 8.

Speakers will address the various organizations and societies. In the synagogues the rabbis will speak on the Keren Hayesod during the Passover holidays. J. J. Glass is chairman of the speakers' committee. Isadore Markus is convener of the work with organizations and societies.

Dr. Chaim Weitzman and Lady Samuel will officially open the Women's Domestic and Agricultural Science School in Nahalal, in the valley of the Emeek in Palestine, on Thursday, April 8. This School is the first specific undertaking of the Hadassah organization of Canada. At the convention held in Montreal, in January, 1921, Dr. Schmarya Levin spoke to the delegates on the need in Palestine of an institution where the young women and growing girls could be scientifically trained.

The Women's International Zionist organization, with which Canadian Hadassah is affiliated, secured a site for the school at Nahalal on land furnished by the National Fund, about fifteen miles from Haifa. Canadian Hadassah pledged the entire amount necessary for the erection of buildings. Already over twenty-three thousand dollars have been remitted, to which Toronto Hadassah contributed eleven thousand dollars (part of the proceeds of the last three annual affairs).

There are now thirty-five girls in the School and it is expected that there will soon be sixty girls in attendance. The course is a short, intensive study, one to enable a large number of young women to receive the benefits of such training.

Mrs. Archibald Silverman, of Providence, Rhode Island, will address a meeting of Toronto Jewish women on the date of the official opening of the school, Thursday afternoon, April 8, at the Primrose Club. The personnel of the Women's 1926 Keren Hayesod Committee will be elected. Other speakers. No appeal for subscriptions will be made.

At the Matzes

By Judah Steinberg

It was quite early in the morning, when Sossye, the scribe's daughter, a girl of seventeen, awoke laughing; a sunbeam had broken through the rusty window, made its way to her underneath the counterpane, and there opened her eyes.

It woke her out of a deep dream which she was ashamed to recall but the dream came back to her of itself, and made her laugh.

Had she known whom she was going to meet in her dreams, she would have lain down in her clothes, occurs to her, and she laughs aloud.

"Got up laughing!" scolds her mother. "There's a piece of good luck for you! It's a sign of a black year for her (may it be to my enemies!)."

Sossye proceeds to dress herself. She does not want to fall out with her mother today, she wants to be on good terms with everyone.

In the middle of dressing she loses herself in thought, with one naked foot stretched out, an open stocking in her hands, wondering how the dream would have ended, if she had not awoke so soon.

Chayyimel, a villager's son, who boards with her mother, passes the open doors leading to Sossye's room, and for the moment he is riveted to the spot. His eyes dance, the blood rushes to his cheeks, he gets all he can by looking, and then hurries away to Cheder without his breakfast to study the Song of Songs.

And Sossye, fresh and rosy from sleep, her brown eyes glowing under the tumbled gold locks, betakes herself to the kitchen, where her mother, with her usual worried look, is blowing her soul out before the oven into a smoky fire of damp wood.

"Look at the girl standing round like a fool! Run down to the cellar, and fetch me an onion and some potatoes!"

Sossye went down to the cellar, and found the onions and potatoes sprouting.

At sight of a green leaf, her heart leapt. Greenery! Greenery! Summer is coming! And the whole of her dream came back to her.

"Look, mother, green sprouts!" she cried, rushing into the kitchen.

"A thousand bad dreams on your head! The onions are spoilt, and she laughs! My enemies' eyes will creep out of their lids before there will be fresh greens to eat, and all this, woe is me, is only fit to throw away!"

"Greenery, greenery!" thought Sossye, "summer is coming."

Greenery had got into her head, and there it remained, and from greenery she went on to remember that today was the first Passover-cake baking at Gedalyeh the baker's, and that Shloimeh Shieber would be at work there.

Having begged of her mother the one pair of boots that stood about in the room and fitted everyone, she put them on, and was off to the matzes.

It was, as we have said, the first day's work at Gedalyeh the baker's and the sack of Passover flour had just been opened. Gravely, the flourboy, a two weeks' orphan, carried the pot of flour for the Mehereh and poured it out together with remembrances of his mother, who had died in the hospital of injuries received at their hands, and the waterboy came up behind him, and added the recollections of his own.

"The hooligans threw his father into the water off the bridge—may they pay for it, susser Gott! May they live till he is a man and can settle his account with them!"

Thus the grey-headed old Henoch, the kneader, and he kneaded it all into the dough with thoughts of his own grandchildren: this one fled abroad, the other in the regiment and a third in prison.

Confidence--the Keynote of Success

The knowledge that one is properly dressed creates that confidence which characterizes a successful man.

Collars that feel like a caress. The Van-Dusen and semi-soft made to rival the best starched collar.

Shirts that fit correctly. No bulging at neck or bosom. Cuffs turned evenly, and when necessary taken off and reversed.

Socks and Woollens with that soft, velvety feeling so much desired and only possible when a soap like "Ivory" is used.

Repairs—Every article the man wears kept in first-class condition, not merely "mending free."

AFTER THE SEDER

At the Seder the solemn wish "Next Year in Eretz Israel" was uttered by the Jews the world over.

If you will it, next year may be THIS YEAR.

Eretz Israel is becoming the Jewish Homeland in our own day.

Do you realize that in 1925 Palestine has received more than ten times the number of Jews entering Canada and seven times the number entering the United States? Keren Hayesod made that possible.

APRIL 13th, 1926

KEREN HAYESOD COMMITTEE,
ZIONIST INSTITUTE.

The dough stiffens, the horney old hands work it with difficulty. The dough gets stiffer every year, and the work harder; it is time for him to go to the asylum!

The dough is kneaded, cut up in pieces, rolled and riddled—is that a token for the whole Congregation of Israel? And now appear the round matzes, which must wander on a shovel into the heated oven of Shloimeh Shieber, first into one corner and then into another, till another shovel throws them out into a new world, separated from the old by a screen thoroughly scoured for Passover, which now rises and now falls. There they are arranged in columns, a reminder of Pithom and Rameses. Kuk-ruk, kuk-ruk, kuk-ruk whisper the still warm matzes one to another; they also are remembering, and they tell the tale of the Exodus after their fashion, and the tale of the flight out of Egypt—only they have seen more flights than one.

Thus are the matzes kneaded and baked by the Jews, with "thoughts." The Gentiles call them "blood," and assert that Jews need blood for their matzes, and they take the trouble to supply us fresh "thoughts" every year!

But at Gedalyeh the baker's all is cheerfulness. Girls and boys, in their unspent vigor, surround the tables, there is rolling and riddling and cleaning of clean rolling pins with pieces of broken glass (from where ever do Jews get so much broken glass?), and the whole town is provided with kosher matzes. Jokes and silver trills escape the lively young workers; the company is as merry as though the Exodus were tomorrow.

But it won't be tomorrow. Look at them well, because another day you will not find them so merry, they will not seem like the same.

One of the likely lads has left his place, and suddenly appeared at a table beside a pretty, curly-haired girl. He has hurried over his matzes, and now he wants to help her.

She thanks him for his attention with a rolling-pin over the fingers and there is such laughter among the spectators that Berke, the old overseer, exclaims, "What impertinence!"

But he cannot finish, because he has to laugh himself. There is a spark in the embers of his being which the girlish merriment around him kindles anew.

And the other lads are jealous of the beaten one. They know very well that no girl would hit a complete stranger, and that the blow only meant, "Impudent boy, why need the world know of anything between us?"

Shloimeh Shieber, armed with the shovels, stands still for a minute trying to distinguish Sossye's voice in the peals of laughter. The matzes under his care are browning in the oven.

And Sossye takes it into her head to make her matzes with one pointed corner, so that he may perhaps know them for hers, and laughs to herself as she does so.

There is one table to the side of the room, which was not there last year; it was placed there for the formerly well-to-do housemistress, who last year, when they came to bake their matzes, gave Yom-tove money to the others. Here all goes on quietly; the laughter of the merry people breaks against the silence, and is swallowed up.

The work grows continually pleasanter and more animated. The riddler stamps two or three matzes with hieroglyphs at once, in order to show off. Shloimeh at the oven cannot keep pace with him and grows angry:

"May all bad . . ."

The wish is cut short in his mouth, he has caught a glance of Sossye's through the door of the baking-room, he answers with two, gets three back, Sossye pursing her lips to signify a kiss. Shloimeh folds his hands, which also means something.

Meantime ten matzes get scorched and one of Sossye's is pulled in two. "Brennen brennt mir mein Harz," starts a worker singing in a plaintive key.

"Come! hush! hush!" scolds old Berke. "Songs, indeed! What next you impudent boy?"

"My sorrows be on their head!" sighs a neighbour of Sossye's. "They'd soon be tired of their life, if they were me. I've left two children at home fit to scream their hearts out. The other is at the breast, I have brought it along. It is quiet just now, by good luck."

"What is the use of a poor woman having children?" exclaims another, evidently "expecting" herself. Indeed, she has a child a year—and a seven days' mourning a year afterwards.

"Do you suppose I ask for them? Do you think I cry my eyes out for them before God?"

"If she hasn't any, who's to inherit her place at the matzes-baking, a hundred years hence?"

"All very well for you to talk, you're a grass-widow (to no Jewish daughter may it apply!)."

"May such a blow to my enemies as he'll surely come back again!"

"It's about time! After three years!"

"Will you shut up, or do you want another beating?"

Sossye went off into a fresh peal of laughter, and the shovel fell out of Shloimeh's hand.

Again he caught a glance, but this time she wrinkled her nose at him as much as to say, "Fie, you shameless boy! Can't you behave yourself even before other people?"

Hereupon the infant gave account of itself in a small, shrill voice, and the general commotion went on increasingly. The overseer scolded, the matzes-printing-wheel creaked and squeaked, the bits of glass were ground against the rolling-pins, there was a humming of songs and a proclaiming of secrets, followed by bursts of laughter, Sossye's voice ringing high above the rest.

And the sun shone into the room through the small window, a white cat jumped around and kissed everyone there.

Is it the Spirit of Israel descending on her young men and maidens and whispering in their ears: "What if it is matzes-kneading, and what if it is exile? Only let us be all together and let us all be merry!"

Or is it the spring, transformed into a white patch of sunshine, in which all have equal share, and which has not forgotten to bring good news to the house of Gedalyeh the matzes-baker?

A beautiful sun was preparing to set and promised another fine day for the morrow.

"Ding-dong, gul-gul gul-gul . . ." It was the convent bells calling the Christians to confession.

All tongues were silenced round the tables at Gedalyeh the baker's.

A streak of vapor dimmed the talk and gloomy thoughts settled on all the hearts of the workers.

"Easter! Their Easter is . . ." and mothers' eyes sought their children.

The white patch of sunshine gave a terrified leap across the floor and vanished in a corner.

"Kik-kik, kik-kik, kik-kik, . . . the hot Matzes. Who is to . . . what they say?

Who can tell now that we have baked their year's matzes, soon they will set about providing with material for the next? . . . and broken glass for the . . .
